ERNST WILL BE U. S. SENATOR

LATE RETURNS FROM THE ELEVENTH BIG ENOUGH TO DEFEAT BECKHAM.

Richard P. Ernst will succeed J. C. W. Beckham as United States Senator from Kentucky the 4th of next March. The landslide from the steep mountains of the 11th district continued for three or four days after the election, finally wiping out the big lead of Senator Beckham in the rest of the State. The majority for Ernst in that district alone is reported to be 42,264, putting him in the lead by 7,579.

The Democratic State Chairman says the returns of majorities for Ernst given out on Wednesday morning from various counties in the 11th grew more than 11,000 in two days, while the first vote announced from these same counties for Beckham remained steadfast to the end.

Cox has carried the State about 4000. Mr. Beckham carried eight of Kentucky's eleven Congressional districts. Mr. Ernst carried three.

The Democratic nominee proved the favorite in the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Districts. Mr. Ernst lives in Covington, in the Sixth.

Mr. Ernst carried the Fifth District by a plurality of 14,855 and the Tenth District, the second most impregnable Republican stronghold, by 13,921.

The First Congressional District, the western end of Kentucky, gave a plurality of 21,255 votes to the Democratic Senatorial nominee.

Central Kentucky, or the Seventh District, got the red ribbon of Democracy when it ran up a majority of 17,094 for Mr. Beckham.

Other Beckham majorities were 3,055 in the Second District, 5,278 in the Sixth, 5,981 in the Ninth, 3,194 in the Eighth and 374 in the Third.

Mr. Ernst ran a remarkable race in the Eleventh District on the face of the returns. He ran ahead of Senator Warren G. Harding, Presidential nominee. He received many more votes than any other candidate ever has received.

Fraud Charges Made.

Charges of fraud in the 11th caused the Courier-Journal to send Claud Perry, a staff correspondent, into that district. The following is a part of his report:

Harlan, Ky., Nov. 4.—Twenty-two hundred votes were illegally cast in this county for Richard P. Ernst, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, according to statements of citizens here.

An investigation into the situation disclosed that close $20,000 was expended, much of it in purchase of votes, and repeating was practiced openly.

Unnaturalized foreigners employed by Republican coal operators voted without being challenged. It is alleged, Democratic challengers and inspectors in several instances being thrown bodily from the voting place.

Automobile trucks were kept busy all day carrying negro voters from one precinct to another, that they might vote often.

It is being freely asserted on the streets of Harlan that Republican coal operators in the county contributed $12,500 to a Republican "slush" fund and that a Louisville coal dealer obtained the pledges.

At Lynch, a mining town of 7,000 inhabitants, thirty-three miles from here, controlled by the United States Coal & Coke company, a majority of 1,392 was given Mr. Ernst. Negroes served as doorknobs at the two voting places in the town, it is charged, and negro girls wearing knee dresses were permitted to vote.

White women were shoved from the voting lines in Lynch, and the head of the Democratic women's club of the town, did not succeed in voting until 10:30 o'clock.

"Our women did all they could," she informed the County Democratic organization, "but the odds were too great and we were not strong enough to fight such an organization."

Federal Secret Service men are said to be on their way here to investigate the fraud charges.

C. D. Purnell, L. & N. agent at Lynch, and Dr. I. D. Wiggington, Democrat, were not permitted to serve as challengers when they reported themselves to Republican officers in the two Lynch precincts, according to J. E. Sampson, who made the race for Congress from this district.

"Mr. Purnell, when told that he could not serve, left," Mr. Sampson said, "but Dr. Wiggington told the officers of election that they would have to eject him. They did."

STREET PAVING.

The street paving from the head of Madison street to Main Cross and on Main Cross to Main has been finished, except a part of one intersection, which should be completed this week. Also, the stone base from Main to Pike and thence to Lock avenue is almost ready for the asphalt top.

W. E. CONNELLEY VISITING RELATIVES ON BIG SANDY

William Elsie Connelley, Historian for the State of Kansas, was in Louisville Wednesday, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luther. He is a brother of Mrs. Luther. His last previous visit to his native country, the Big Sandy valley, was eighteen years ago. He was reared in Johnson and Magoffin counties and went west many years ago. Several volumes of history have been published by Mr. Connelley, one of them being confined to the Big Sandy valley's early history.

Recently a publishing house has been seeking some competent person who will undertake the large task of writing a history of Kentucky. Mr. Connelley has been asked to do the work and his trip to Kentucky is for the purpose of deciding about this proposition. His home is at Topeka, Kansas.

But both of his eyes are destroyed and his right arm is off. He is recovering as rapidly as could be expected from the various wounds inflicted by the terrible accident.

LAWRENCE SHOULD BUILD GOOD ROAD TO MORGAN LINE

It is time steps were being taken toward building a good road from the county seat of Lawrence to the Morgan and Elliott county lines, by way of Blaine town. The decision of the Court of Appeals preventing counties from lending money to the State to use on the roads laid down on the map made by the last Legislature changes the situation somewhat as to Lawrence county.

Our bond issue of $250,000 was voted for four roads leading from the county seat. Three of these are provided for under the State map referred to. Their completion will be delayed by the decision of court, but the work will be done as rapidly as the State can get funds.

This leaves only the Blaine route unprovided for.

This is a matter that should be started at once. All the time between now and next spring will be needed to get ready for work. The co-operation of the State Roads department should be sought on survey and location with view to getting this road added to the State projects later on, in which case the work done by the county would not be lost. Proper location is one of the most important things in road building and we should quit making the mistake of wasting money on improper locations.

A considerable portion of the bond issue can be used on the Blaine road and it should be done with as little delay as possible. We believe the fiscal court and the advisory commission are ready to act on this important matter.

WM. TAYLOR, S. L. C.

RESIDENCE OF MR. FRANK MAYNARD DESTROYED

Mr. Frank Maynard's home was burned a few days ago and the flames severely injured him about the face and hands. Nothing was saved.

He lived at Walbridge, three miles south of Louisa.

He requests us to say that some notes and accounts were destroyed along with all his other papers and he appeals to those indebted to him to come and settle at once, as he needs the money worse than at any time before.

A DANGEROUS SITUATION.

While the heaviest shooting was going on one night last week in celebration of the election a wagon load of nitroglycerine was standing just outside of the city limits alongside the public road. With explosions heavy enough to rattle windows throughout the vicinity, and with boys reckless enough to put off any size shot, it made a dangerous situation.

THREE STILL SEIZED.

Three stills on the left fork of Twelvepole creek about 50 miles above Kenova were seized Sunday by federal prohibition agents located in Huntington. 1200 gallons of mash were found along with the stills, two of which were destroyed immediately. The third was left as a decoy until Monday in an effort to capture the moonshiners. No arrests were made.

DEATH FROM ACCIDENT.

Tobe Simpson, 31, died Monday in Ashland from a gun shot wound below the heart received from his own revolver as he pitched it with a coat into an automobile the day before when he and his brother were starting on a hunting trip. He is survived by his wife and one son. His father, C. A. Simpson, a contractor, is well known here.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Louise Milton Reynolds celebrated her 6th birthday anniversary by giving a party at her home to a number of friends with dinner at the hotel later in the evening.

Soldiers Withdrawn from Mingo Coal Fields

Williamson, W. Va., November 5.—The battalion of Federal soldiers on duty in the Mingo county coal fields since the strike of miners was called almost three months ago has been withdrawn. Twenty-five troopers of the West Virginia Constabulary arrived here to-day to take the places of the soldiers. An additional detachment is expected within a few days.

The state police will make their headquarters in Williamson and cover the Mingo coal fields from here.

Federal troops were brought into Mingo county at the request of Governor Cornwell after a series of disorders attending the strike.

The strike is still on, but while there have been a number of shootings within the past few weeks, the authorities held that they could be traced to other causes.

ECHOES FROM THE RECENT DISASTER

Congress will be more strongly Republican than it has been since the 54th.

Already it has been announced that the highest tariffs ever established in the United States will be included in a new law by the recently elected Congress. The Democrats put the tariff into the hands of a commission composed of Republicans and Democrats, to take the matter out of politics and adjust rates to the best advantage of the country at large. But the people voted for a big change and they must have it. The manufacturer who put up the money want it back. So if some plan can be devised to satisfy the consumer, we should all be happy.

Tennessee also transgressed and permitted some Republicans to slip into office.

Tammany traded off Cox and Roosevelt in an effort to save their candidate for Governor, Alfred Smith. They came within 80,000 votes of putting him over.

Senator Harding has gone to Panama on a vacation and Governor Cox is planning a trip to Europe early next year.

The north, east and west went wildly for Harding.

The six negroes nominated by the Republicans in Ohio for State Senate and Legislature were all defeated. One of them, a Columbus negro, declares he will leave Ohio forever. He is considerably peeved because of the defeat administered to him and his colored brethren.

The Democrats in Kentucky gained one Congressman, defeating King Swope, the bonus bug.

For the first time in his history Kentucky has a millionaire in the United States Senate for a full term.

TO PACIFIC COAST.

Mr. George Graham and family after spending the summer in a camp in Michigan, have left for the Pacific coast for the winter. Mr. Graham and private secretary are making the trip by automobile and expect to join the family at Bellingham, Wash., about Christmas.

It will be remembered that Mr. Graham, who is a native of this county, visited here last May after an absence of thirty-two years.

WEST VIRGINIA'S TWO AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION

ROAD BONDS MAY BE ISSUED TO AMOUNT OF FIFTY MILLIONS.

Legislation will be necessary by the new General Assembly in regard to at least one of the two amendments to the constitution adopted at the recent election.

These amendments are known as the good roads amendment and the legislative amendment both of which appear to have been adopted by decisive majorities.

The first amendment gives to the Legislature authority to issue bonds for construction and maintenance of a system of state roads and highways.

The aggregate amount of bonds outstanding at any one time is limited to $50,000,000, and when an issue is authorized the Legislature at the same time is required to provide for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest and to amortize the principal within 30 years. If a bond issue is decided on, the necessary machinery will have to be set up for carrying out the provisions of the amendment.

There are no indications as to how large a bond issue is likely to be sought. There is some speculation as to whether or not an attempt will be made to issue the entire $50,000,000 of bonds in one lump. It is believed generally that a bond issue will be sought, however.

The legislative amendment, in addition to a provision to pay members of the Legislature a flat sum for the term, instead of on the present-day basis, also makes an important change in the meeting time of the Legislature.

According to its provisions, the Legislature will convene first for a fifteen-day session. During this period its proceedings will be limited to the introduction of bills and it will have authority to pass only such measures as are deemed to be emergency bills and measures recommended by the Governor. At the end of 15 days a recess will be taken until March 4, when a forty-five-day session will convene.

During the second session business will be confined to considering and acting on measures introduced at the fifteen-day session. No new measures can be introduced or considered unless they are recommended by the Governor to be emergency measures. The advantage claimed for this "double-barrelled" session is that it will give to the voters time to familiarize themselves with proposed measures and to permit their attitude to be known.

There was little outward signs of opposition to the legislative amendment, the innovations having been regarded as worth a trial at least. Considerable opposition, however, developed previous to the election against the so-called good roads amendment, much of the opposition coming from Charleston, where one of the newspapers had waged an active campaign for the defeat of the measure for weeks preceding the election.

It was contended that the amendment was drawn crudely, one of its alleged defects being that it provided that the money must be spent upon roads connecting county seats. This, it was argued, would work to the disadvantage of those counties, including Kanawha, which already have constructed this class of roads and that such counties would not benefit by the measure. Another serious defect alleged was the failure of the amendment to provide for the abolition of the County Court system of building roads.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Lawrence County Chapter will seek a membership of 200 in the Fourth Red Cross Roll Call, November 11 to 25. This quota has been fixed by H. B. Dickson, Roll Call Manager for Lake Division.

Chapter quotas have been set with the view of enrolling 1,500,000 members in Lake Division—Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

Plans for achieving this goal were completed at conferences of chapter Roll Call directors of the three states at Indianapolis, Louisville and Columbus.

"Let every good American citizen become a member of the Red Cross" is the message of Herbert Hoover, whose relief work abroad during the war brought him into close association with the American Red Cross.

The stupendous foreign and domestic task before the Red Cross in its peace program is one that deserves the support of the American people, he points out in urging a large enrollment.

Churches throughout Lake Division have begun plans for the observance of Red Cross Sunday, November 14. From the pulpits of the three states the cause of the Red Cross will be impressed upon many audiences and its vast peace program explained.

"The Red Cross of Peace," the pageant written especially for Lake Division, also will be presented at churches on Red Cross Sunday.

BODIES OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS BEING RETURNED RAPIDLY

Paris.—Nearly 9,000 bodies of American soldiers who died or were killed in France during the war, have been shipped to the United States and turned over to their nearest relatives, and 1,800 more await shipment at French ports. The work of removing the bodies of fallen Americans is expected to be completed by next summer.

Nearly 60 per cent of all the bodies of American officers and enlisted men buried in French soil will be returned to the United States. Nearly 2,000 men will work all winter in order to complete the removals by next summer.

HUSBAND MOURNED AS DEAD WALKS IN FRONT DOOR

George Willis of Portsmouth, Ohio, walked in his home last Thursday, kissed his wife and child, and asked them what had happened since he left home eight weeks ago.

On October 30 a dead man found along the N. & W. tracks was identified as Willis by his wife, and was buried in the cemetery, and the family was in mourning over the husband and father when he walked.

Mrs. Willis thinks some one should reimburse her for the funeral expenses of the dead man she buried, thinking it was her husband.—Ironton News.

New Canning Outfit for Sorghum Marketing

The Lobaco Company has installed the best machinery that is made for canning sorghum. It is heated in a large retort or container, glass lined, with a capacity of several barrels. This is filled from the second floor of the building. Under this large container there is an automatic arrangement for filling the cans. A conveyor then carries the cans a few feet away to a sealing machine that forces the compression caps that seal the cans.

It is all a most complete apparatus, in keeping with the equipment of all departments of the Lobaco Company. It is thoroughly sanitary. A large business is being built up in the sorghum line. The sorghum made in Lawrence and Wayne counties is superior to that produced almost anywhere else in the world and the demand expands wherever it gets a trial.

No Applications for More Street Paving

The City Council met in adjourned session Tuesday night. It was expected that one of the most important subjects to be discussed at this meeting would be street paving in "Italy" and Central addition and perhaps other places within the city, but no one appeared at the meeting desiring anything in this line.

A board of supervisors was appointed to equalize the tax lists. They are W. H. Adams, C. B. Bromley and Thos. Luther.

The clerk was directed to issue notices to property owners abutting the finished street paving.

Another meeting is to be held on Nov. 23rd.

NEGRO CONVICT ARRESTED IN PARSONS CASE

Harlan, Ky., November 6.—Dr. H. C. Winnes, formerly of Cincinnati, arrested at Frankfort November 4 and brought to Harlan for questioning in connection with the murder of Miss Laura Parsons, teacher at a Pine Mountain settlement school, was arraigned in county court to-day.

The court decided that it had no jurisdiction in the case and passed it to the circuit court, which promptly ordered Dr. Winnes to be released.

Miss Parsons was slain on a lonely mountain trail September 7. Dr. Winnes told the grand jury that investigated the murder that he probably was one of the last persons who saw her alive, having met the teacher and talked with her a few minutes at Dillon, not far from the scene of the murder.

Dr. Winnes said he took a circuitous route over the mountain and never saw her again.

James Robinson, a negro working on roads at a convict camp near the scene of the crime, is accused of having slain the teacher. He was arrested several days ago on leaving prison after having served a term for robbery and was taken to Harlan.

LATER.—Dr. Winnes has been re-arrested and will be given an examining trial.

REGAINS CONSCIOUSNESS AFTER FIVE WEEKS LOSS

Miss Newman, a daughter of Oscar Newman, of Lavellette, W. Va., was severely injured near Louisa five weeks ago. She had been visiting the family of Gallie Peters, four miles southeast of Louisa. At the time of the accident she was riding in an automobile. The machine struck a deep rut or bad place in the road, causing quite a jolt to the passengers. Miss Newman's back received such a twist or wrench that she became unconscious and remained that way until Monday of this week, when she regained consciousness and was able to talk. She had no recollection of anything that had happened since the accident. The family and friends are now very hopeful of her recovery.

LETCHER COUNTY JUDGE RECEIVES PARDON

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 6.—Fess Whitaker, jailed for Letcher county, who was elected last Tuesday to succeed to the office of the County Judge that sent him to jail, will be free to qualify for the office.

Gov. Edwin P. Morrow today pardoned him, accepting Whitaker's vindication at the polls as sufficient reason for clemency.

Whitaker had quarreled with former County Judge Sam Collins, who sent him to jail for fighting. He was incarcerated in his own jail, but unlocked the door during the night and went out. He was indicted and convicted of escaping, for which he received another jail sentence.

No "Pussyfooting" Here We Have Cut the Prices

Owing to recent reductions in the wool markets we are convinced that we can replace our present stocks for much less than we paid for them and there isn't a clothing store in the United States that cannot do the same thing. Other clothiers may continue their pussy footing methods relative to the lowering of clothing prices to the level justified by replacement values, as long as they like. We're red-blooded enough to take the initiative in this great sacrifice—entailing readjustment movement, because we feel it to be our patriotic duty as well as good business judgment to do so.

All Clothing will be sold at prices based on actual replacement cost

Clothing prices are going to take a tumble, the handwriting's on the wall. A drastic readjustment is on the way. But it will be six months or more in coming because retailers are inconveniently stocked with highest priced merchandise the world has ever known and are endeavoring to get out from under without a loss. We, however, feel that the general clothes buying public is entitled to the new prices now, and we are backing our convictions with a general sacrifice. This store has always sold the very best values possible. Today we assume leadership in putting clothing prices back where they used to be in the good old days before the war; are you with us? Here are new scale of prices.

If we have a statutory law it ought to be enforced or repealed. A law on the statute books if not enforced becomes a blank page.

Hunters are running over men's farms without license killing rabbits, squirrels, quails or anything they can find.

When the shooting is right around our officers whose duty it is to enforce the law and they simply wink at the offense there is something wrong with the officers. If there is a game law it should be enforced the same as any other law.

The writer saw a large flock of wild geese going south last Monday evening. It was the first flock he had seen in many years. The saying of old people is that it foretells stormy, bad weather.

Since the almanacs fail to tell us we need something to remind us of coming storms. OLD LEM JUCKLENS.

IS GLAD HE TOOK IT FOR IT HAS COMPLETELY RESTORED HIS HEALTH.

"In three weeks I picked up ten pounds in weight and I can say that Tanlac will do all they say it will," said Barney Johnson Lee, 2220 Lyons Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

"Back in February I had a spell of the 'flu' that left me all run-down and my stomach out of order. After I went back to work I was so weak I could hardly hold out during the day. My appetite was so poor I had to force down enough to keep me alive and it always soured on my stomach and caused me no end of trouble. My nerves were unstrung, it was next to impossible for me to get a good night's sleep. I was just about played out."

"I had heard about Tanlac and when I saw the statement of Reverend Charles Sanders, of Huntington, W. Va., I decided to try it. My appetite picked up right away, and in a few days the indigestion commenced to leave me. Although I have taken only two bottles of Tanlac I have gained ten pounds my nerves are strong and I sleep like a top every night. I am as well and strong as I ever was and feel like my old self again."

To the Farmers--

It has been circulated throughout the county that we are paying only fifty cents per gallon for sorghum. This is a mistake as we are paying seventy cents and eighty cents for fancy No. 1 sorghum. This does not affect contractors as their prices remain the same. We desire to secure all the sorghum we can possibly get and will take all of the sorghum that comes to Louisa.

Broom corn has become mixed with cane to such an extent that a number of the farmers are not getting production out of their crops. Please act now, find a farmer who has strictly No. 1 seed and procure them and put them away for next year as we will be buying sorghum next year the same as we are buying this year. Remember that the proper seed is half the effort in securing ample production.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce

CHARLEY EDWARDS as a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Court Clerk of Lawrence-co., at the primary to be held in August, 1921.

Friday, November 12, 1920.

Yesterday, Nov. 11th, was the second anniversary of the signing of the armistice and the end of fighting in the horrible world war.

The day was celebrated in many places.

We have seen several landlides in our day, but the one that started Tuesday morning of last week slid further and moved longer and skidded in more different directions than any other has ever done.

Senator Harding announced a few days ago that the League of Nations is dead.

But Elihu Root comes out in a statement that warns Mr. Harding against such a declaration.

He and other leading Republicans say a League is inevitable.

In spite of all the propaganda and the skillfully executed plot to destroy

Woodrow Wilson, the mention of his name before any large audience brings more applause than can be evoked in any other way.

He has sacrificed his life for the peace of the world, and it has not been in vain.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Press comment on the election of the Harding-Coolidge ticket follows:

New York Evening Post (Independent):—Warren G. Harding has been elected to be President by enormous majorities over Woodrow Wilson. The name of the unsuccessful candidate reads otherwise on the ballots yesterday.

But it is not James M. Cox that was repudiated. Any Administration that had conducted the war now would be the target of the bewildering number of protests that merged yesterday into one gigantic protest.

There entered into Harding's majorities yesterday the votes of those who were against war with Germany in 1917 and the votes of those who were for war with Germany in 1914; the votes of those who think the peace imposed upon Germany too crushing and the votes of those who think the treatment of Germany not drastic enough; the votes of those who resent the restriction upon the liberties of the American people resulting from the war and the votes of those who resent the Administration's supposed tenderness for Bolshevism.

New York Evening World (Independent):—If Cox had been elected the United States would have gone into the league. Inasmuch as Harding was elected the United States must go into the league. This still is a great issue. By electing a Republican President, the country has not changed its fundamental duty toward the greatest peace movement in history. Hoover and Taft have held that Harding, if elected, would turn out to be their Harding, and not the Borah-Johnson Harding. They have elected him. Now let them prove him. The final phase of the great fight has just begun.

Baltimore Evening Sun:—The Republican party, with an abundance of money and a highly efficient organization that it had been building for years, merely capitalized all the "grouches," combined all the discontent from every source, made vague and large promises and kept rubbing the sore spots and abusing Wilson. What they will do with their victory now is to be seen.

Chicago Journal (Democratic):—The election of Senator Harding is a triumph of misrepresentation, based on control of publicity. Outside New York City, the Republican party controls four-fifths of the newspaper publicity in every debatable state. With such an advantage the party managers figured that any fakery would receive credence for the duration of a campaign. The result proves that they were right.

IN MEMORY

The death angel has again visited the home of our brother and sister, John Nelson and wife, and claimed for his own their darling little baby, Marcelleen. She was two years old past when the death summons came. She always had a sweet little smile for every one she met. She never met any strangers. Everything that loving hands and kind hearts could do for little Marcelleen was done, but God who doeth all things well, reached forth his almighty hand and plucked from us the little tender bud and set it in heaven to shine as a bright morning star.

We all miss little Marcelleen's company here in this world. The little darling is resting in the arms of Jesus and helping us all to live that when the summons comes we may take a flight and go home to glory where little Marcelleen has gone and be together. Our sympathy is with the bereaved family. The body was laid to rest in the mountain home cemetery, funeral services conducted by W. H. Tomblin. A LOVING AUNT, N. R.

H. P. ELDERMAN BODY BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

The body of Henry Elderman, of Clyffside, was shipped to Louisa and burial took place Friday afternoon at Mattie, Lawrence county, beside the grave of his wife who preceded him in death about three months ago. The body was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Danny Brown, and her husband.

Henry Elderman was born in Holland and came to this country during the civil war. He enlisted in the United States navy and served through out the length of the war. After the close of the war he settled in Virginia and gradually drifting south until he arrived in the Big Sandy valley where he lived for many years as a lumber operator.

He and his family moved to Ashland many years ago and for many years the deceased was a watchman at Clyffside Park. His death came as a result of several years' trouble with pulmonary tuberculosis. He is survived by two sons, James and Andrew, who now reside in the west but who were formerly well known here. One daughter survives, Mrs. Danny Brown, who ministered to her father throughout his sickness. The two sons were here about two weeks ago for a visit but departed last Saturday as their father had taken a turn for the better. They were unable to reach Ashland in time for the funeral.

The deceased was well and favorably known in Ashland. He was engaged in the lumber, grocery and coal business at various times in his life. —Ashland Independent.

CHILDRENS DAY AT GARRETT CHAPEL

This was one of the grandest and most beautiful Children's Day services ever held in our county. The occasion was entered into by the entire school with the greatest ardor and zeal in hearts of all. Profound interest, co-operation and enthusiasm throughout the entire program. Viewing it all was thought "What a field for service!" Truly the boys and girls of today are the men and women of tomorrow. Attendance largest ever known in county at children's day services, estimated 600 to 700, from all sections of county.

The church was beautifully decorated with crepe paper artistically festooned from side to side. A large stage had been erected, completed by a background of beautiful flowers and plants shining forth their autumnal tints in radiant colors. Flags and banners were also displayed in profusion. The day was a wonderful success, spiritually and financially. Collection delivered to the secretary for state work. Years collection largest known in history of the county.

As your secretary I wish to extend my highest appreciation to one and all of Garrett Chapel school for this generous offering. God will one day richly reward you all a hundred fold for all your labors and influence. The strong and effective program for this great day could not be surpassed. The music was grand and impressive by Prof. Matthias Rice, leader, and his great choir of efficient singers. The Old Ragged Cross with twelve children kneeling around, the six little boys with letters spelling "praise" and six little girls with flowers and appropriate verses decorating the cross, was beautiful and impressive, and was the closing scene.

ELIZABETH HATTEN, District Secretary.

GREAT DANGER OF DEATH FROM "MOONSHINE"

The Washington State Board of Health has issued a warning against the use of "moonshine" liquor. Prohibition enforcement officials are finding many stills in private homes and in out-of-the-way places. They estimate that there are ten thousand such stills in the State. The warning issued says: "There is no such thing as pure 'moonshine'! The fermentation of mash from raisins, prunes, potatoes, sugar, and other things used generates fusel oil and other dangerous chemicals." The metal containers in which the mash is cooked give off deadly poisons. One run of liquor from a homemade still may be relatively harmless and the next highly dangerous." The warning says that "unless the drinking public cuts down its consumption of homemade liquor deaths in the next three years from 'moonshine' poisoning will exceed the American death roll in the World War." This warning will doubtless be accepted by most consumers of homemade liquor as a joke, and they will go on making and drinking the poison to their physical, mental, and moral ruin. In the end they will find that "it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

Indiana Lady Had Something Like Indigestion Until She Took Black-Draught, Then Got All Right.

Seymour, Ind.—"Some time ago I had a sick spell, something like indigestion," writes Mrs. Clara Peacock, of Route 6, this place. "I would get very sick at the stomach, and spit or vomit, especially in the mornings.

"Then I began the use of Theford's Black-Draught, after I had tried other medicines. The Black-Draught relieved me more than anything that I took, and I got all right.

"I haven't found anything better than Black-Draught when suffering from trouble caused by constipation.
It is easy and sure. Can be taken in small doses or large as the case calls for."

When you have sick stomach, indigestion, headache, constipation, or other disagreeable symptoms, take Black-Draught to help keep your system free from poison.

Theford's Black-Draught is made from purely vegetable ingredients, acts in a gentle, natural way, and has no bad after-effects. It may be safely taken by young or old.

Get a package of Black-Draught today. Insist on the genuine Theford's.

Haven't you see mothers and fathers who will humor their children in every little thing, and when they see what a pass they are coming to, they will suddenly stop and wonder why the poor bewildered child makes such a fuss. I knew a mother once whose child had a very nervous temperament.
When the child was tiny the mother had humored her in her fear of the dark. As she grew up it seemed easier to humor her than not. So the mother never made her go into a dark room and never made her sleep alone.
At last, when the girl was nearly sixteen years of age the mother suddenly realized how foolish her tactics were and all at once she ceased to humor the child. The girl, left alone in her room at night was surrounded in her imagination by a hundred horrors, but her mother would not listen to a pleading to relieve her distress, thinking she was doing her duty. Finally, after about a month of severe mental suffering, the child contracted brain fever and nearly lost her life. That is a severe case of course, but to the point, nevertheless. If you are humoring your child unnecessarily it is well that you find it out and stop, but you can't expect to bring about a change in the child's nature over night. You must go at such things gradually. Human beings cannot be sent to every little wind that blows through the human mind.

Sometimes one sees a child that is unusually attractive and upon making a remark to that effect to the mother she will simper and smile and say,
"Yes, but she is just spoilt to death."
She will laugh about it as if it were something to be proud of. A spoiled child is a very sorry little creature, because she has to get that out of her makeup or lead a very sorry existence.
A great many children are spoiled until they leave home and go out "on their own." Then it is knocked out of them, but it is very hard for them to get themselves adjusted to things as they find them. Those who do not get it knocked out of them will always be failures, so it is a pretty hard proposition for the child either way. Parents should take every precaution against spoiling their children or letting others do it, for it will only lead to their great unhappiness later on.

"The time to get married," said a cynical young woman, "is when you are young and don't know any better, or when you are old and tired of living with yourself." That state of mind is one of the things that is wrong with our American homes just at present.
The sooner it is trained out of our young people the better. And it can only be trained out by having them observe happy marriages—either their own or others.

If you want a good cure for the blues, read a good rousing love story that is clean and decent, or write and tell somebody all about it—somebody who is a true friend and who will understand. That's the best way in the world to chase the blue devils away.

At Last

You have read the two previous advertisements in which we have sketched the possibilities in a very limited manner of this tremendous enterprise.

Or perhaps you haven't read them—and you do not know that this industry ranks tenth in size in United States today, and in ten more years will rank with the greatest.

From unknown obscurity, to tenth largest in the Country, in ten years is a big achievement and the ultimate goal is still ahead.

This enterprise is now possessor of two modern plants on a paying basis, and one in the course of construction, and additional capital is needed to spread out.

You are invited to put your money in this business. It is sound, safe and sure and you are assured that your money will bring good returns.

We do not expect you to go into rhapsodies of delight over the very little you have read so far, but the many men who believe with John Hare, "It is better to trust and be deceived than to doubt and be mistaken," have written for our prospectus, which explains fully our plan, and are now just as enthused as we are.

This is our last attempt to get your interest. If we have failed, then we believe we have both lost a big opportunity. If we have succeeded, then we have just started a lasting friendship. Think it over—and write today.

HUMAN SIDE OF WOODROW WILSON BY HIS SECRETARY

INTERESTING PICTURE OF ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST MEN, A MARTYR TO THE CAUSE OF PEACE.

Washington, Oct. 29.—An intimate picture of the "manner of man this Woodrow Wilson really is," based on ten years as his private secretary and touched here and there with hitherto unpublished incidents in the President's official life, was drawn last night by Joseph P. Tumulty, speaking to a mass meeting just over the line in Maryland.

Text of Speech.

"I come to you tonight," said Mr. Tumulty, "merely to talk for a little while about the man who for eight stirring years has been the nation's leader, a man as strangely misunderstood by some and as violently misrepresented by others as any man in the whole history of American politics since the great President Washington died out, after years of malignant misrepresentation, that he had never repented but once having slipped the moment of resigning his office, and that he had rather be in his grave than in his present situation."

"I have long wanted to tell the country of the manner of man this Woodrow Wilson really is, but have refrained because I knew that he himself would not have approved. He who shrinks from self-exploitation, would resent exploitation by his friends. And so while he was a candidate for office, or appealing to the country to elect a Congress that would support his policies, I have put a seal on my lips, hard as it has been to do so."

"It, therefore, seems to me not improper, that just before the curtain rises on the last act, I modestly step out from my obscurity in the wings and tell the audience a few things about the leading actor in this great drama of the last eight years, the stormiest and most pregnant period in all the history of the world."

"As for my credentials, I have known Woodrow Wilson for ten years in the intimate relationship of a private secretary. I may be presumed to know at least as much about him as the geometer who discourses volubly of him in pulman smokers, on the golf links and in the clubs, who assure you that all they say is fact, for they had it on the word of a friend of a friend who passed through Washington once and heard a man say that another man said, etc., etc."

"It was in the autumn of 1910 that I suddenly realized that out of the cloisters of a college there had emerged the leader for whom I and many like me of the younger generation of the politically ardent had been seeking in vain, a man who could put into words, simple words, but words adame with truth, the things after which we had been vaguely groping, and a man who could, would and did measure up his acts to his words."

"We felt passionately felt, that the American Government, national and State, was not functioning as the founders had intended it should function. As a member of the New Jersey Legislature I had been assisting in getting new laws on the statute books, laws intended to correct flagrant abuses, abuses known to all men, but cynically assumed to be inseparable from the American type of government."

"Resentfully I felt that the fault was not with the type of Government, but with distortions of it which the powerful, the interested, the sinister had been able to accomplish. But while we youngsters fumed and fretted and urged partial reforms, the great vested interests quietly kept on buying what they wanted and we couldn't stop them."

"Then from quiet, sheltered Princeton, there came a professor who laid the axe at the root of the tree, who showed us that the cure consisted, not in elaborating more machinery, but in simplification, in tearing away accumulated and superfluous mechanism, in putting the people of New Jersey in direct and personal contact with the Government of New Jersey."

"He insisted that the visible head of the State, the Governor, must be the real head, that the people should hold him personally responsible. He promised the people of New Jersey that if they should choose him for Governor he would be the leader of the State and return their Government to them, which he did through the enactment of humane and progressive laws, embodying four fundamental principles of self-government."

"Six months after his inauguration these principles had been enacted into law. New Jersey was awake. Suddenly the State became synonymous with enlightenment and liberation. During his campaign for Governor, very shortly after his nomination, I came to know him personally. Of course, I was campaigning for him and our itineraries brought us together at Lakewood, N. J. After that I subsequently spoke from the same platform with him, came to know the man himself, quickly came to love him for his heart as I had admired him for his great brain."

"It is impossible to tell you how proud I was when he invited me to become his private secretary in Trenton or how solemnly gratified I was when, after he was elected President, he invited me to come to Washington as his private secretary."

"March 4 I shall have completed ten years, two months and four days of this intimate, official, personal association. The task has been arduous. I have acquired enemies. I have been through many trying experiences but I have had my reward. I look on this setting caldron of politics and I see men torn asunder with malice and suspicion. I behold their strivings and disappointments and there comes over me a great serenity. Let the future bring what it will, I have had this supreme satisfaction, that for ten years I have been tied up with the greatest man of the age and the greatest force for public good in all the world at this present time."

"Woodrow Wilson is a builder. His mind is constructive, and under his direction there was, during his first term as President, the greatest record of constructive legislation in any four years of our country's history."

"I saw arise under his direction and leadership the establishment of the Federal Reserve System, the revision of the tariff, the establishment of rural credits, enactment into law of the nonpartisan tariff commission, the encouragement of pan-Americanism, the great reaches of Alaska opened up to commerce and development, the dollar diplomacy destroyed, corrupt lobbies driven from the nation's capital, the Federal Trade Commission created, child labor legislation enacted, the parcel post and rural free delivery developed, good roads bill passed, eight-hour laws adopted, the Smith-Lever bill for improvement of agricultural conditions enacted into law, the warehouse act passed, Federal employment bureaus created, the workmen's compensation act put into force and the greatest war in all history brought to a successful conclusion under his inspiring leadership."

"I saw him firmly hold our nation in neutrality in most trying circumstances of the World War. I know how his heart flamed against the outrages which Germany was committing, but he knew the responsibilities of his office and he knew better than anyone else that the general mind of America was not prepared for war."

"He hoped even against hope that the United States might be able to serve the cause of justice and democracy as a mediator between the combatants. At last came the direct challenge from Germany, the announcement, in direct violation of solemn warfare."

"April 6, 1917, President Wilson rode to the Capitol and read, amid wild cheers from the floor and galleries, the great war message, one of the immortal documents of history, which will continue to be read through ages, read as long as the English language remains a living tongue. It will be read as long as men love liberty, have faith in justice, and respect human rights. On that fateful day I rode with him back from the Capitol to the White House, the echo of the applause still ringing in my ears. For a while he was silent and pale in the Cabinet room. At last he said:

"Think what it was they were applauding. It means death for our young men. How strange it seems to applaud that."

"My friends, that simple remark is one key to an understanding of Woodrow Wilson."

"All politicians pretend to hate and dread war, but Woodrow Wilson really hates and dreads it in all of the fibers of his human soul, hates it and dreads it because he has an imagination and a heart, an imagination which shows his sensitive perception of the anguish and the dying which war entails, a heart which yearns and aches over every dying soldier and bleeds afresh with each new-made wound."

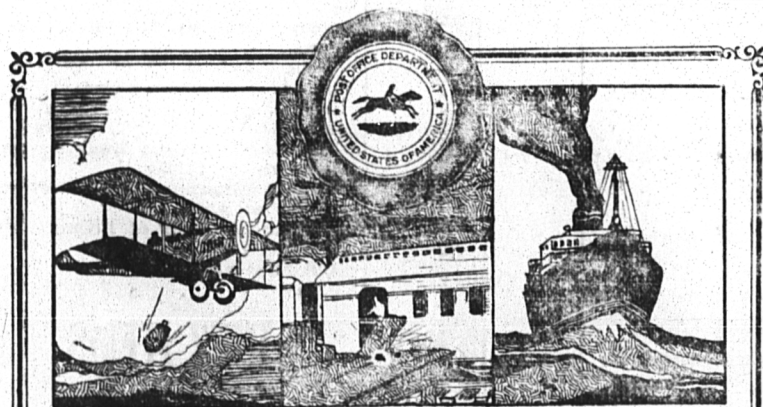

"When word came, back in 1913, that a German vessel, laden with munitions was on its way to Mexico, President Wilson was in telephonic communication with Secretaries Bryan and Daniels. After the situation had been stated over the telephone the voice came back clear and firm:

"Order Admiral Mayo to take Vera Cruz at once." I was on the telephone at the time and listened to the conversation that took place between the President and Secretaries Bryan and Daniels. Just before I cut off the connection I said a word to the President about the tragedy of it all. His voice responded, no longer clear, but muffled, as when one chokes back a sob:

"What do you think of it, Tumulty? It means death. It breaks my heart, but it must be done."

"You will recall that some of our marines were killed at Vera Cruz. When the news came the President was abnormally quiet all day. He went about his business methodically, with his usual clear judgment and prompt decisions, but that night he sat silent for a long time."

"At last he said: 'I cannot get it off my heart. It had to be done. It was right, nothing else was possible, but I cannot forget that it was I who had to order those young men to their deaths.'

AN ORGANIZATION OF 300,000 PEOPLE AT YOUR COMMAND

A vast army of 300,000 people is at your service, night and day—all the time. You are one of the 110,000,000 patrons of the greatest organization of its kind in the world—The United States Post Office Department. The many interesting and instructive activities of this department are vividly shown in the fourth of a series of handsomely illustrated folders about Our Government which this Institution is now distributing to all who send us their names.

Without placing yourself under any obligation let us send you these articles and also those previously issued.

"When the bodies of the marines were subsequently brought to New York for burial, the President signified his intention of leaving Washington, and riding in the funeral procession at the City of New York. Some disquieting rumors reached the Secret Service officers of an attack that might be made upon his life, and the President was urged to cancel his trip to New York."

"When it was found that his determination to go was irrevocable, it was suggested that he review the procession from a stand and not take part in the march along the whole dangerous line of the parade. His answer was a curt refusal to comply with the suggestion."

"One undertook to argue with him, saying: 'You will show all proper respect by appearing in the reviewing stand. The country cannot afford to lose its President.' His reply was: 'The country cannot afford to have a coward for President!' This was his brief and final answer. He rode in the procession."

"I have seen the great heart of Woodrow Wilson in action. In considering appeals for pardon, civil and military, he must uphold the law, but his heart aches when he has to confirm the death sentence. And because of his humanity and his imagination he makes all legitimate allowances for the infirmities of the flesh."

"Instances are too numerous for cataloguing them. Let one suffice, a privileged case that got a lot of notoriety in the newspapers; the case of the American sentries condemned to death by military law because they fell asleep at their posts. The offense was serious; the law definite and clearly applicable, that when a sentry falls asleep at his post, facing a dangerous enemy, the penalty is death."

"The President knew the gravity of the offense, but he also knew the simple human facts that lay behind the offense and that these facts, because of military emergency had not slept for days."

"Military law may be too rigid, to take cognizance of these simple, human considerations, but the President can. This President did. He knew that great nature had asserted itself, that the exhausted laws, under its spell, were helpless. He commuted their sentences."

"The very sternness of Woodrow Wilson is just the reverse of his humane nature. He hates injustice with an implacable hatred. The essence of the German cause was injustice. The diplomatic history of Europe is a record of injustice to small and helpless nations. Nothing was more natural than that Woodrow Wilson should become the champion of the small nations."

"When the die was cast, when the challenge came from Germany to America, when the American popular mind was ready for war, Woodrow Wilson, the lover of peace the once exclaimed at a critical period in the negotiations, 'I have a passion for peace', this same Woodrow Wilson became the most uncompromising advocate of the most stringent measures for conducting the war, thereby hastening the end of the war, to bring Germany to the swiftest possible reckoning, to clear the way for a rearrangement of a concert of nations on a basis whereon a permanent peace could be secured."

"Of all the speeches made during the great war none was more warlike than the speech which Woodrow Wilson made to the naval officers of the Atlantic fleet August 11, 1917. No speech by an American statesman ever compared in audacity with that speech. Remember what he said to the naval officers of that fleet?"

"We are hunting hornets all over the farm and letting the nest alone. None of us knows how to go to the nest and crush it, and yet I despair of hunting for hornets all over the sea when I know where the nest is and know that the nest is breeding hornets as fast as I can find them. I am willing for my part and I know you are willing, because I know the stuff you are made of—I am willing to sacrifice half the navy. Great Britain and we together have to crush that nest, because if we crush it the war is won."

"It was he who insisted on the mining of the North Sea to cut off the German hornets inside so that the hornets could not escape from their base. Experts said that it could not be done. The civilian Wilson said it could be done, must be done and it was done."

"It brought the German submarine warfare to an end. It was the civilian Wilson who broached the plan for combining the allied Powers in the West under the supreme command of General Foch, in order that all the allied forces could be concentrated on the German forces to crush them."

"The merciful Wilson urged at every point the most perfect means of carrying on legitimate war in order to end war. In his mind the supreme object of this war was to end war—first, by crushing the military powers of Central Europe, and then by the advancement of a plan to remove from diplomatic and international dealings the perfectly well-known causes of general war, to put international relations on an entirely new basis, in which community of nations should protect all and each from exploitation and aggression."

"He has insisted on Article X as the heart of the covenant because he knew that only by combined action could the territorial integrity and political independence of nations be preserved from aggressive attacks by ambitious nations."

"In his insistence on Article X President Wilson wished to forestall the necessity of the United States going to war by making the United States a participant in a plan to prevent the beginning of such a war. He wished to stop the next war before it should begin."

"In all the insincerities of American politics there is nothing to match the insincerity of the Republican contention that the League of Nations will promote war."

"Like all the world's great liberators, he has kept the vision of the future and counted as nothing his own life save as he could make it serve to insure a better future."

Study the record and you will find that no other President has consulted so much with Congress, with Senators and with Representatives, singly and in groups in the White House and in the consultation room at the Capitol. They know it. They find it convenient to deny it for partisan advantage."

"Woodrow Wilson will presently make his exit from the political stage. I am human enough, and all the Irish are very human, to want him to live for many years, not only for the sake of his personal friends and the great books which he is going to write, but also the vindication which is sure to come."

"Sometimes when I ride around the speedway and look at the tall graceful obelisk and Grecian temple that stand as monuments to Washington and Lincoln, I catch myself wondering if they from the spirit world ever look down upon these commemorations in everlasting stone, and smile through wistful spirit eyes, and think that it would have been happier for them personally if their countrymen had given them more of their hearts during their lifetime and less of stone after death. They asked for bread, the bread of humanity, sympathy and understanding and we gave them stone."

"Woodrow Wilson will have his monuments; the future generations will see him clear eyed and unprejudiced as one of America's immortals; but I want him to live to realize that he has a place in the warm hearts of his countrymen while he lives."

"I want him to realize that wish which he expressed several years ago when he said: 'I want people to love me.' I want him to realize that he was modestly mistaken when he said: 'They never will.'"

ADELIN

IN MEMORY

Raymond White, Carpenter's mate, second class, born February 25, 1899, died October 19, 1920, at Hampton Roads, Virginia, in the U. S. navy hospital. He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe White. His death was due to bronchial pneumonia. He was a kind, loving and truthful boy from his childhood. He was loved by all who knew him. It is said that he was dearly loved by his captain and his many friends in the navy. He enlisted in the navy February 14, 1919, and was stationed at Hampton Roads, Va., until his death occurred. He was always ready and willing to do his duty. He had been home four times. We remember that his parents entertained quite a large crowd of young folks and a fine dinner was served in his honor last Christmas as he was home on a furlough.

He was a most highly respected young man of 21 years old and had prospects of being a prosperous young man. But God knew best and called him to the other shore. He said that he was prepared to die and was going to rest, so we feel sure that he is with the angels happy band, singing songs in praise to God.

We all loved Raymond and mourn the loss of him, but he is where they know no troubles and where sorrow never comes.

He was at home just two months prior to his death. His father and his brother, Joe, were present at the time of death. They only got there a short time before he died and he talked with them and was not unconscious until death.

The remains of Raymond were brought home and laid to rest on the hill overlooking his home where only three years ago his grandmother and grandfather White were laid to rest.

Raymond always loved to sing and so we know he is rejoicing now and singing with the angels around the throne of God. We must not weep for dear Raymond but he is so badly missed we cannot express what a kind boy he was. But we must live a righteous life and prepare to meet him in the great beyond.

His funeral and also the funeral of his little sister, Pearl, who departed this life a few years previous, will be preached at Tyre's chapel the third Sunday in this month by Bro. J. H. Cleveland. We would like for everyone to come. It will be a morning service.

BUCHANAN

It seems as though Catlettsburg is taking in more territory or at least the bootleggers are. A few days ago a shanty boat towed by a motor skiff anchored on the opposite side of the river here with a supply of moonshine and the three well known and well standing bootleggers peddled out their supply. At that time there was not a full pool of water in the dam.

These three bootleggers were looking after timber in Bear creek, but when the water got big enough to raft the timber their supply of booze was gone and of course they couldn't raft the timber.

This outfit has been busy all summer. One of the lockmen at Kavaugh says that their outfit is locked through once and twice a week with a supply.

Will the County Judge or John Waugh inform us how and what steps to take to stop this? Can't we have some of these buyers taken into custody and make them tell where they got this.

Please give us some information thru the columns of the NEWS.
